Presupposition

...it should be presupposed that every good Christian ought to be more eager to put a good interpretation on a neighbor's statement than to condemn it.

Further, if one cannot interpret it favorably, one should ask how the other means it.

If the meaning is wrong, one should correct the person with love; if this is not enough, one should search out every appropriate means through which, by understanding the statement in a good way, it may be saved.

Adapted from the Spiritual Exercises [22] by Katherine Dyckman, Mary Garvin, and Elizabeth Liebert in The Spiritual Exercises Reclaimed

An Ignatian Approach to Relationships

By Catherine Heinhold

How many times have you felt that something you said or did was misunderstood by someone else? And, not only misunderstood, but interpreted in such a negative way that it had nothing to do with what you really meant or intended? It's enough to make you start to question the other person's motives, even questioning their good will towards you.

At the beginning of the book, The Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius Loyola, Ignatius gives an instruction to the one who is guiding the retreatant and the one who is making the Exercises about how they are to relate to one another. We've come to call this instruction the "Ignatian Presupposition." A version of this Presupposition is printed in the box above. Essentially, it asks the guide and retreatant to: 1) give the other the benefit of the doubt; 2) ask clarifying questions when unsure about the position of the other; 3) correct the other with love, when necessary; and 4) search for mutually acceptable solutions.

Sounds like this approach would help the relationship along, right? Fortunately, there's no need to confine this way of proceeding to the experience of the Spiritual Exercises retreat. The Presupposition is a fundamental attitude towards others, choosing to see their God-given goodness before anything else. It is not an invitation to others to walk all over us or an excuse to ignore evidence of a malicious intent. Practicing the Presupposition expresses a desire to find common ground so as to work together to further the flourishing of the reign of God.

Some parishioners may be familiar with the blue cards printed with the Presupposition that are given out at some parish meetings and activities. As a parish community we are endeavoring to deepen our practice of the Presupposition in our daily lives. The parish's Ignatian Spirituality & Jesuit Identity Committee is in the final stages of developing a training on the use of the Presupposition that it will offer to interested parish committees and groups. A group of parish staff members are also exploring how the use of the Presupposition could enhance working relationships. And members of our Young Adult Community are already practiced at gently reminding each other when they've strayed from the Presupposition.

This week, I invite you to try the Presupposition in your own life. How might the Holy Spirit invite you to relate to others differently?

Living Our Mission: Celebrate God's Love

Written by Moira Duggan, Baptisms and Weddings Coordinator

Within the first six months in my role at Holy Trinity, I have logged 25 Baptisms and 16 weddings. Of those 16 weddings, most were in the chapel last summer while the church was closed. Since reopening, there have been five weddings in the church. More to my point, though: of those 25 Baptisms, 22 took place as regularly scheduled in the chapel as a Liturgy of the Word. These communal Baptisms account for 79 babies being baptized!

These celebrations are the workhorse of Baptism here, though you may not be familiar with the format. As one priest likes to say, these are sacred but not solemn occasions. There are often siblings or other small children attending, and this liturgy is perfectly safe for them. Many priests ask people to stay seated through the short liturgy. There is a worship aid to join in singing. At the end, there is applause, Baptism certificates, and many family photos.

In contrast to weddings, though, these Baptism liturgies are exactly the same, every single time. The real joy in having the same liturgy time and again is this: the only variable is the families coming to baptize their child, the child they are bringing into our Church. One priest likes to ask families additional questions at the beginning of the liturgy—in particular, he likes to ask the parents to explain why they chose this name for their child. This brief sharing moment allows everyone to know each family and each new Christian just a little better. Beth, who was previously in my role, told me I would quickly memorize the Baptism liturgy. I scoffed. With age and small children, my mental acuity is not in college form. However, she was right—the words of the Baptism liturgy are, at this point, thoroughly ingrained in my mind. In a way, the liturgy has become my prayer.

Recently, during Baptism of the Lord, the Sunday Gospel reading was the same as used in these communal baptism celebrations (Mark 10:13-16: “And a voice came from the heavens, ‘You are my beloved Son; with you I am well pleased.’”). That weekend, as he baptized eight babies in two different weekend masses, Father Campbell delivered a broader message in his Homily, saying:

Each and every Christian has the right to hear “this is my beloved Son, my beloved Daughter, with whom I am well pleased” addressed to him or her by God. And this is clearly what God is saying to the children we are about to baptize. Wouldn’t it make a huge difference if the first thing we allowed ourselves to hear every morning was “You are My Beloved”, not because we deserve it or have earned it, but simply because we know that is how God looks upon us and loves us in Christ.

We all need to hear that each day. (And you can listen to the entirety of Father Campbell’s Homily on our webpage at homilies.trinity.org.) I am always telling our kids to “Share! Share! Share!” but a wise Jewish friend from Texas often corrects me saying, “No—they must take turns!” In 2020, we will offer 21 of these celebrations. If you would like to become involved in the ministry of Baptism—which includes being an unofficial but very real welcoming committee to babies and their families—and serving as sacristan, lector and master of ceremonies, then please be in touch at mudggan@trinity.org. Then, we will “take turns” being reminded that we all begin as children of God.

DAILY MASS INTENTIONS

Parishioners may also request that a specific person be remembered by name at a particular weekday Mass by calling or visiting the receptionist's desk in the Parish Center during normal office hours.

Having conversations about respecting diversity in many areas can be a sensitive topic for parents to discuss with their children. Yet, it is necessary in order to be welcoming to everyone. This presentation may include topics that are not appropriate for younger children. Childcare will be available in the Upper School Cafeteria.

Green Team Meeting

All are welcome at the February 9 meeting at 10am in the Lower School Big Room. Learn about Project Drawdown, a world-class research organization that reviews, analyses, and identifies the most viable global climate solutions, and shares these findings with the world. Through their programs and partnerships, they help educators and students of all ages to understand the solutions available to address the climate crisis and create new ways of teaching and learning.

Green Team Tips

Calculate your carbon footprint. Popes Francis, Benedict XVI and John Paul II have all spoken of the need to address climate change. It's influenced by the amount of heat trapping CO<sub>2</sub> and other greenhouse gases (GHGs) in the atmosphere. Small atmospheric GHG % increases can have a significant impact on Earth's temperature rise. Every day—across everything you do and buy—you contribute to GHG emissions. Calculators can help you better understand how much carbon is produced by different activities. Then, if you decide to reduce your emissions, you'll know where you can generate the biggest impact. Start with this easy to use calculator: www3.epa.gov/carbon-footprint-calculator.

Power of One is June 6

At Holy Trinity, our faith and Ignatian tradition call us to build a more just world that upholds dignity, equality and access to social and economic opportunity for all. Our social justice ministry supports and facilitates living a life of justice and peace, and once a year we try to do this together as a parish. We call it the Power of One. This year, we will celebrate and serve together on Saturday, June 6. We are working to create opportunities for service around the DC Metro area that day. If you would like to be part of the planning, please contact Ashley Klick at aklick@trinity.org.

Volunteer with Housing Up on February 22

Volunteers are needed to create toiletry kits for the 700 residents Housing Up serves. Housing Up's mission is to provide families with opportunities to transform their lives and thrive through affordable housing and support services. Sign up at trinity.org/volunteer.

Fund a Scholarship for St. Jean Baptiste

Holy Trinity collaborates with our sister parish in Haiti, St. Jean Baptiste, to offer scholarships for students who want to continue their studies after graduating from the parish's secondary school. Thanks to your generosity, our current awardees are studying nursing, law, engineering, political science, teaching and pharmaceutical science at universities and career schools. Following the success of graduates from the past four years, we will continue to make post-secondary study a viable option for future graduates. Tuition fees are $1,500/year for university and $500/year for career school. The HT/SJB Haiti Committee hopes to enlarge our team of sponsors, each of whom commits to donating $200/year for four years. We will offer as many scholarships to the Class of '20 as our total funding received by June 1 will allow. To become a scholarship sponsor or learn more about the projects of the committee, contact Ashley Klick at (202) 903-2836 or StJeanBaptisteHaiti@gmail.com.
