Holy Trinity's Hospitality Ministry: A Beloved Tradition

By Carol Maxwell, Holy Trinity Hospitality Ministry

"If you behave, we will get donuts after Mass." Or conversely, "If you don't behave, you won't get donuts after Mass!" Have you ever wondered how all those donuts and coffee magically appear in McKenna Hall every Sunday morning? The coffee hour has been going on for many years after the 9:00 and 11:30 Sunday Masses thanks to a stream of parish volunteers.

My husband Bill, and I were persuaded in 2017 to "do" coffee and donuts for the 9:00 Mass by Lisa Dittmeier as the previous volunteers were no longer able to serve. We had no idea that we were getting into such a beloved tradition and ministry, nor the time and work commitment involved! We rolled up our sleeves and got to work alongside numerous volunteers.

9:00 coffee has its own personality. In between Mass and RE, children rush in to get a donut. When the doors to McKenna Hall are opened, it is like Black Friday at Walmart with swarms of children swooping in to get donuts and then trying to get to class on time. Of those who remain, parents and other parishioners have a much quieter time to socialize, introduce visitors, greet new parishioners, renew their friendships, and spend time with priests and parish staff.

11:30 coffee, on the other hand, has a quieter atmosphere as most children and their families take advantage of the 9:00 coffee before RE.

Since our parish is so large and members come from around the wider metro area, the hospitality ministry contributes to bonding us together in our Catholic community.

We have a dedicated team for the 9:00 and 11:30 Masses, responsible for setup and serving. Each team commits to volunteer once every four to six weeks during the school year, are trained in all the details of serving and crowd logistics, and can operate independently.

Volunteers are single folks, parents with children who love to help with the preparation, as well as older adults. This is a good way for children to see the example of their parents serving others. One volunteer's 8-year-old daughter convinced her mother they should volunteer, and she and her mother have been two of our most regular volunteers for several years. There are volunteer parents whose teens volunteered with them up through high school who have kept volunteering after the children left for college. For all, this is a way to serve our diverse community, between 425 and 450 people each week. Besides, everybody loves you when you feed them donuts!

The process is quite organized and seamless, but not without some hiccups! For example, one morning the supplier accidentally froze our donuts solid. Since we deal with 36 dozen donuts each week, putting them in the microwave was impractical! The volunteers put them out on tables, went to Mass, and prayed they would defrost by the end of 9:00 Mass. They turned out mostly fine, a few flavors colder than others, but parishioners didn't seem to mind. There were no complaints and no leftovers!

Another time, a huge amount of snow unexpectedly fell overnight. The snow was so high that the volunteers called to say they couldn't even open the doors of their house, let alone get out of their street to drive. Roads were impassable over the whole metro area, so we felt forced to call off coffee. However, Father Gillespie, unbeknownst to us, trekked out in the snow to Saxby's to buy a box of hot coffee and a few donuts. Amazingly, a small handful of parishioners who live nearby and had walked to Holy Trinity, still came down to socialize after Mass!

Probably our most adrenalin-fueled experience was early in the morning of January 6, 2019. Our supplier had a new driver who forgot to deliver our order. We were faced with NO DONUTS for hundreds of parishioners! In a quiet panic, volunteers fanned out through the DMV, buying up all the donuts we could find. Donuts arrived in the courtyard at the very moment that both 9:00 Masses ended. We opened our car trunks and parishioners swooped in to pick up boxes and bring them into McKenna Hall to get their donuts and get to RE. It was nerve-racking and exhausting but an experience we would eventually laugh about - only after everyone had been fed.

Unfortunately, our long-time donut supplier went out of business during the pandemic, but we were able to locate a wonderful new supplier, the French Bread Factory, in Sterling, VA. They have been a reliable partner, and parishioners love their donuts.

We now over a dozen volunteers who work the coffees after the 9:00 and 11:30 Masses. We are grateful to all of them for their continuing generosity and kindness in giving their time and talent to this important ministry, following St. Ignatius' exhortation to be people for others. They are all wonderful to know and to work with.

Jesus fed the multitudes with loaves and fishes. We don't think that would fly now, so our volunteers are feeding Holy Trinity's multitudes with coffee and donuts!

The Hospitality ministry would certainly welcome more volunteers! If you are interested, please contact Tabitha Acosta at parishlife@trinity.org. Thank you!

True Growth Flourishes Within The Right Context

by Miriam Darby, HTS Director of Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging

At Holy Trinity School, we believe that true growth flourishes within the right context. Imagine a place where each moment is infused with intention, where students engage in practices that foster attentiveness, reflection, and love. Here, we pause to reflect, pray the Examen, and genuinely pay attention to one another. In a fast-paced world that often overlooks everyday beauty, our community stands as a sanctuary, cultivating a sense of belonging that empowers students to embrace challenges and deepen their understanding of themselves and others. By nurturing both mindset and context, we create essential conditions for every child to thrive.

As the Director of Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging, I am thrilled to be part of a community that embodies a countercultural approach to education. We reject the notion that success is measured solely by fast action and quick results. Instead, we savor the learning process, prioritizing personal growth and meaningful connections. Since joining in August 2024, I have been inspired by the Jesuit philosophy of "be a person for others," which guides my efforts to cultivate an inclusive environment honoring the diverse identities and experiences of all our students.

From my first days at Holy Trinity, I have been captivated by the beauty and depth of this special place. The commitment to intentional reflection and the needs of others is woven into our daily interactions. Witnessing students engage in heartfelt conversations, demonstrate empathy, and extend kindness ignites my passion for this work and gives me hope for the future. This culture of care mirrors the philosophy of seed and soil, where belonging is cultivated in a supportive environment, providing fertile ground for each child's growth. Lockers are decorated for student birthdays, classmates encourage one another to audition for the school musical, 8th graders prepare hundreds of meals on their first day of school for families in need, and students work across grade levels to raise awareness and support for N Street Village. Here the work of learning and being a person for others knows no bounds.

Central to my experience is the concept of affordances. Picture a nurturing environment where students are surrounded by opportunities that promote personal growth—academically, socially, emotionally, and spiritually. Each moment is thoughtfully primed to foster development, allowing students to thrive within a rich tapestry of knowledge building experiences.

As I teach kindergarten and first-grade science and social studies, I am continually inspired by our youngest learners. Their curiosity and eagerness to explore remind me of the limitless potential within each child. In this vibrant environment, we don't just teach; we cultivate growth and discovery. It is vital that we provide access to these educational affordances while focusing on the essential elements that will guide them on their unique journeys.

I am grateful for the opportunity to contribute to the Holy Trinity School community. I invite you to support the Annual Fund, which is essential for sustaining our mission to provide an education that invites us all to see God in all things. We can continue to cultivate an environment where every student feels seen, heard, and empowered to be a person for others, igniting their potential to make a meaningful impact in the world.
