There Is Room Here: Don't Bury The Gift

by Christopher Dake,
Director of Advancement & Stewardship

Last weekend, I was blessed to be on retreat at Loyola on the Potomac in Faulkner, Maryland. It is a gift to spend 40 hours in silence with God every fall, which I don't take for granted, especially as someone who spends most of his days talking or staring at a computer screen.

The retreat invited me to pray with the hidden treasure God places within each of us: a holy light we are meant to share. We reflected on Matthew Chapter 5, where Jesus boldly calls us "the light of the world." Then he reminds us that no one lights a lamp and puts it under a bushel basket. Practically speaking, that would be foolish; no one would willingly set their house on fire because they put a flame under something completely flammable. Jesus's point is simple: don't hide what you have been given. And notice who the light is for. It isn't a spotlight on us. It lights the whole house, so that others "may see your good deeds and glorify your heavenly Father." You can see how much room you have in a house when it's lit rather than when it's dark.

This weekend's Gospel (Matthew 25:14–30) doubles down on the same point. One servant, entrusted with the least, is so afraid of failing that he buries the gift. He says so honestly: "Out of fear I went off and buried your talent in the ground." Fear makes our lives smaller. A small heart has no room for anyone else.

But notice what the master does first. He entrusts each servant "according to his ability." He makes room for each of them to grow, and to the faithful ones he says, "Come, share your master's joy." Without fear, our lives grow larger, with room enough for others.

That is what we try to do at Holy Trinity: make room for one another, so that each of us can become who God made us to be. God loves us through each other. When we accompany one another in Christ and celebrate God's love together, God's light in each of us shines through, and it shows the next person the way in.

This is my third pledge season at Holy Trinity, and I have enjoyed getting to meet a lot of you. One perk of the job is learning what brought so many of you here. The answer I hear most often is simple: you felt welcomed. Someone let you know there was room for you here. That welcome brings joy to the person who receives it, and joy to our Lord, who wants us not to bury our gifts but to set them where they give light to all in the house.

It's worth remembering that in Jesus' parable, a talent was money, worth more than 15 years' wages. The gifts Jesus asks us not to bury include our treasure. Making a pledge is how we keep the lamp lit and the door open for whoever walks in next, making them feel welcomed and showing them there is room here.

Stewardship Sunday - 2027 Annual Pledge

Our goal: $5 million. Our 2026 budget was $4.97 million, and our 2027 budget is $5.06 million, which is about a 2% increase. The cost of operating a parish of our size has increased, from staff salaries to utilities, insurance, and the upkeep of a historic campus. Our pledges need to rise with it. If you pledged last year, please consider increasing your pledge. If you have never pledged, this is a wonderful year to begin.

When our annual pledge grows, so does our impact outside of Holy Trinity. Since 1984, ten percent of pledge contributions has gone to our tithe program, operated by volunteer parishioners to distribute among many worthy partner organizations. This year, the tithe awarded a record $631,000 for housing, health care, education, and more. The tithing program is like a lamp in a window, shining outward into the world.
Be sure to review our 2026 Annual Report to see the impacts of your talents across the parish and school - now available at trinity.org/annual-report.

Three Questions Regarding the Pledge:

If I give monthly, does that count toward my pledge? Yes, when your monthly gift is set up as payments on your pledge. Thank you for giving regularly!

How much did I pledge last year? We will be rolling out a new parishioner portal in the coming weeks that will show you what you have pledged and donated since January 1, 2025.

Can I designate my gift? Yes. Gifts designated to ministries such as Ignatian Spirituality or Social Justice stay with that ministry and cover its specific costs. They are counted separately from our $5 million Annual Pledge goal, which sustains the whole life of the parish, including the staff who make every ministry possible.

By now you should have received Father Gillespie's letter and our There Is Room Here brochure. I invite you to pray about your pledge for 2027, then return the enclosed card or give online by scanning the QR code at right or visiting trinity.org/give. Thank you for making room here!
